Description

Children and youth with ASD benefit from direct teaching and practice with social skills.

How can you do that, especially right now during a time when many social activities aren't happening?

Join us for Successful Social Skills and Autism, which will provide practical ways to teach and practice social skills with your child or youth with autism, even when our social circles are smaller than usual.

If you are unable to register online, please contact Carrie at 519-953-5445 or register@tvcc.on.ca.
